THE ANN BARBARICH AWARD INTRODUCTORY FORM

The Award was established in 2015 in memory of Ann, a pilot, parachutist and aviation enthusiast who sadly died while on a tour of duty flying the B787 for Air New Zealand. Ann had well over 16,000 hours and in recent years had flown the B787, B747 and B737 with Air New Zealand. She had gained hours very early in her career as a parachute drop pilot and coordinated her 500th flying hour by handing over control of the aircraft and making her 500th parachute jump! Air New Zealand generously sponsors this award in memory of Ann.

Purpose

The purpose of this annual award is to encourage and motivate an aspiring pilot with the experience of a day in the life of an Airline Pilot with Air New Zealand and a leadership workshop. Ann was very enthusiastic about giving her time and advice to ambitious pilots, especially those she could help with their path to the airlines.
